England Recalls Soldiers, Given Leave on Truce

Firm Stand for Independence Is Intimated by De Valera, Speaking Before Irish Republican Parliament in Dublin.

(By Associated Press.)
London.—All soldiers on leave from Ireland in Aldershot and Farnborough have been ordered by telegraph to return to their regiments immediately.

Immediately on promulgation of the truce in Ireland, large groups of soldiers were granted leave of absence in England.

A Belfast dispatch of Monday quoted the Irish News, the nationalist organ, as claiming to have unquestionable authority for stating that the British government's preparations of a renewal of conflict in Ireland, consequent on the possible abrogation of the truce, has been speeded up within the last three days to such an extent that they were virtually completed.

RECOGNIZE ONLY IRISH PARLIAMENT

(By Associated Press.)
Dublin.—In opening the Dail Eireann at its first public session here Tuesday, Eamon De Valera, republican leader, reiterated Ireland's claim for separation from Great Britain and declared that the only government the people recognized was the ministry of the Dail Eireann, the Irish republican parliament.

He and his colleagues, De Valera said, had adopted towards England, the principle laid down by Cardinal Mercier of Belgium, towards Germany, that external authority was unlawful, and the Irish stood for the people's declaration of independence.

Mr. De Valera provoked laughter by describing the British attitude as that of a great nation demanding guarantees for its safety from a small one, which it should be a nation guaranteeing safety to a small state.

Proposals for a truce, Mr. De Valera declared, did not think the British proposals were unjust.

Mr. De Valera pointed to the virtual immunity of the British government from the British people, for the position he said was that of a man unwilling to negotiate to save his face, but to save, if possible, bloodshed and for right and principle.

Mr. De Valera said that at Wednesday's session, besides recounting the negotiations between the Irish and British governments, he would give, in a general way, an account of the department and that at the end of the session he would give accounts of their departments.

Peace and War.
The proposed reply to Premier Lloyd George, continued the president, would be considered in private session. He emphasized the seriousness of the reply, declaring the British government intended to make it on a basis of peace or war with the Irish nation.

After the reply was sanctioned and ready for dispatch, there would be another public session of the Dail. Mr. De Valera continued, further elections to office would occur and then the parliament would work upon the propositions to be advanced for the new Dail ministry.

Mr. De Valera asserted Ireland, at the elections, had virtually declared by plebiscite for a republican government, not because the people

"Lost" Department Is Great Success

In the last two or three days several things have been returned to their owners through Gazette WANT ADS. There have been two camera brochures turned in, also a valuable brown fox fur. All three things came in very shortly. The woman who lost the fur after the ad appeared in the paper for the first time, was generous in giving a reward. It was somewhat larger than was expected by the man who found it. Don't hesitate to use a Want Ad the minute you find you have lost something. Most people watch the "Lost" column closely for a few days after they have found anything. That is the time to find anything while it is still fresh in their minds.

LETTER SOUGHT AS CLUE TO CAUSE OF SUICIDE MYSTERY

POLICE ALSO AFTER MEN WHO REMOVED GIRL'S EFFECTS.

THREATS ALLEGED
Advertising Writer Takes Life Following Receipt of Missive from Editor.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago.—Police on Tuesday began a search for a letter from the editor of a North Dakota periodical in the hope that it might contain some clue to the motive for the suicide Monday night of Mrs. Mary De Brito, 38, advertising writer for a department store.

They also are searching for three men, two of whom visited the young woman's rooming house at 3 a. m. Tuesday, a few hours after she was found dead in the bath tub with a gas tube in her mouth, and took every paper and photograph from her room. Representing themselves as employees of the department store, the two strangers carried off a number of pictures, letters, personal papers, a metal bond box and even forced the girl's trunk with a screw driver.

Threats Reported.
The third man being sought appeared at the rooming house last Sunday, representing himself as an insurance company employee, inquired Mrs. De Brito's life history. Later, the same day, he visited the girl's office and is said to have threatened her.

Mrs. Edward Weiler, with whom Mrs. De Brito lived, started police on the search for the letter from the magazine editor. Two weeks ago she said, the girl read an article in a North Dakota magazine attacking her and her father as punishment in certain cases. She wrote a letter to Governor Lynn B. Frazier protesting and asking why the magazine should be suppressed. A letter of acknowledgment from the governor's secretary, which Mrs. De Brito showed to Mrs. Weiler, said her complaint had been sent to the editor.

Last Friday Mrs. Weiler told police the girl received a letter from the editor and appeared much upset. Saturday when she came home, she told of the man who had threatened her at the office, and learned that a man answering the description had called at her home, she appeared on the verge of collapse. Mrs. Weiler said.

Mrs. De Brito was married at 16 to Claude De Brito, a wealthy Brazilian, according to her mother, Mrs. Mary Forman. They later separated.

In 1915 she won a prize as the most beautiful Irish girl in Chicago.

ASSESSMENT BOOKS OPENED TO PUBLIC

Those Notified of Increase Have This Week to Enter Protests.

Assessing of real estate and personal property in Janesville for the year 1922, is practically completed. It was announced Tuesday by City Assessor Frank L. Smith. The assessment books will be open to the public the balance of this week beginning Wednesday morning, in preparation for what may be the final meeting of the board of review next Monday.

It is not known yet what the change will be over the assessed valuation of $30,959,036 of last year, but it is generally believed there will be a decrease. Mr. Smith does not expect to compile his totals for another week at least. Preliminary figures announced at Beloit show an increased valuation there of about $700,000.

NEW Scheme Tried

A new scheme being worked out by Mr. Smith this year which will doubtless prove a great convenience and saving of time for taxpayers here. In any case where the assessed valuation of any piece of property has been increased more than $50 or $100, the taxpayer is being notified, either in person or by mail. Many post-cards giving notice of increase in assessments have already been sent out with more being mailed each day.

The scheme is expected to prove invaluable to the large percentage of taxpayers, many of whom do not know of any change in their taxes until they find it on their assessment card. They will know that practically no changes have been made in their figures.

Privilege of Protest

Anyone receiving notice of an increase which he does not think is justified and who wishes to offer evidence to prove his contentions, is invited to confer with the assessor at his office in the city hall any time this week. Adjustments can be made there, with reductions on the basis of the taxpayer's own satisfactory evidence to Mr. Smith. In case no reduction is granted by him, the taxpayer still has the privilege of appearing before the board of review to present his case next Monday.

"I do not look for many protests this year," stated the assessor Tuesday.

TWO ARE DROWNED IN DEVIL'S LAKE

Student and Girl Perish When Rowboat Sinks; One Rescued.

(By Associated Press.)

Madison.—A girl and boy were drowned and another boy was saved from death when a steel rowboat sank Monday afternoon, in Devil's lake.

The victims are: Clarence J. Williams, 19, 410 West Doty street, Madison, student of the university; Minnie Boiles, 18, Baraboo.

The boy, who was rescued, is Walter Fields, 23, Salt Lake City, student at the university.

According to witnesses, the two students, who are camping at the lake, with a geological party from the university, went out in the boat after having been warned that it was unsafe for three persons. It is not known how the accident occurred, but it is believed that, due to some sudden shifting of the rocks, the boat entered the lake and sank.

It was observed that before the party left the shore the water was almost up to the gunwales of the boat.

Witnesses declared that when the trio found themselves in the water, the frightened girl clutched Williams, causing both to sink.

Up to a late hour of Tuesday morning neither of the bodies had been recovered.

$790,330,000 CUT IN NATION'S TAX BURDEN CLAIMED

FORDNEY REPORTS BIG ECONOMY MOVE IS UNDER WAY.

SAVING IS LARGE
Excess Profits and Income Surtax Continue to Jan. 1, 1922.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington.—A reduction of $790,330,000 in the annual tax bill of the nation will result from the changes in the 1918 revenue act embodied in the new administration bill. Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee declared in a majority report filed Tuesday with the house.

As much as the repeal of the excess profits tax and reduction of surtax rates on individual incomes do not become effective until calendar year 1922, the report said, $490,000,000 of the contemplated loss of revenue will not be reflected in revenue collections prior to 1922.

Actual reductions in taxes for this fiscal year, the report continued, are estimated at approximately $200,000,000, total collections under the new bill being figured at $3,376,000,000 as against estimated collections of $3,570,000,000 under the present law.

Estimated Reductions.
Estimated reductions in taxes beginning with the calendar year 1922:

CAUCUS ACTION HELD FARMERS' VICTORY

Washington.—Repeal of the excess profits taxes and reduction of income surtaxes to 22 percent on Jan. 1, 1922, decided on Monday night by the republican house caucus, represents a victory for the farmers' group.

In the party, these forces, aided by James R. Mann of Illinois, former republican house leader, defied the taxation agreement reported recently as a result of a conference of republican leaders and members of the ways and means committee.

are given in the report as follows:
Repeal of excess profits Jan. 1, 1922—$450,000,000.
Reduction of income surtax rates on individual incomes to 22 percent, Jan. 1, 1922—$90,000,000.
Increased exemptions of heads of families to $2,500 for dependent children—$40,000,000.
Additional exemptions for dependents increased to $100, from $50—$200,000.
Repeal of all transportation taxes Jan. 1, 1922—$262,000,000.
Repeal of tax on life insurance—$600,000.
Repeal of taxes on beverages—$600,000.
Reduction of taxes on candy—$800,000.
Exemption of goods—$2,000,000.
Furs—$4,100,000.
So called luxury taxes—$15,000,000.
Estimated gains in taxes beginning with calendar year 1922, are given as follows:

Increase of corporation income tax from 10 to 12 1/2 percent, Jan. 1, 1922—$135,750,000.
License to sellers of soft drinks—$10,000,000.
Increase of sales tax on general beverages—$12,000,000.
Taxes of five cents on carbonic acid gas—$2,000,000.
Taxes on fruit juices, still and fountain syrups—$12,000,000.
Substitution of manufacturers' taxes on toilet preparations and proprietary medicines—$8,000,000.
The total loss in revenue is thus placed at $928,050,000 and the total gain at $2,750,000, leaving a net loss of $750,330,000 estimated by the report.

Corporation Tax.
Overnight changes made in the bill provide for a corporation tax of 12 1/2 percent instead of 13 percent on life insurance companies, effective this year, this levy to be in lieu of all other taxes including those on policies, except the corporation stock and stamp taxes.

In the case of individual tax payers deriving profits from the sale of capital assets, a 15 percent tax of the gain from the disposition of such assets would be imposed, where the net income and capital assets gain exceeded $40,000, instead of $20,000 as fixed in the original committee draft.

The revised bill was approved Tuesday night.

FEED SHORTAGE IN MIDWEST IS SEEN

Underproduction of Oats Is Marked; Hay Crop Also Is Short.

Madison—A shortage in the small grain and hay crop of the middle west portends a shortage of food in the great feeding state contributing to the Chicago market according to the state crop reporting service, despite the favorable corn crop.

The underproduction of oats this year is not confined to Wisconsin alone, in which the crop dropped from 108,000,000 bushels last year to an indicated 65,000,000 bushels this year, but extends to the entire group of Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota and Iowa. Last year's group crop was 231,000,000 bushels, with this year's crop registering an indicated fall-off of 51,000,000 bushels to 180,000,000.

While the situation as regards hay is slightly more favorable, the crop shortage this year being 2,500,000 tons as against last year's crop of 31,000,000 tons, it is pointed out that hay is not transported to any great extent because of its bulk, and that most of it is fed in the vicinity in which it is grown.

Wisconsin itself is 1,100,000 tons short, with the remaining shortage of approximately 2,000,000 tons scattered throughout the others of the group of feeding states.

WILSON-COLBY LAW FIRM SENDS CARDS TO ATTORNEYS HERE

Janesville attorneys received what they believed to be the first announcement and solicitation ever made by an ex-president of the United States, when engraved cards were in the mails Tuesday morning carrying the news that Woodrow Wilson and Bainbridge Colby had opened offices for the practice of law in Washington, D. C. and New York City.

It may be remembered that Woodrow Wilson was president of the United States and Bainbridge Colby was the Secretary of State up to March 4th, 1913.

President Wilson in the last 50 years have not gone into retirement when their terms of office were over. Andrew Johnson went back to Tennessee, restored politics and was elected to the United States senate in 1875 but died before he could take his seat. Gen. Grant made the celebrated tour around the world and after his disastrous experience in business died shortly after completing his memoirs. President Hayes retired to his farm at Springfield, Mass., but never appeared in court after his retirement. Arthur went back to New York and retired, dying one year after going out of office. Cleveland founded law offices in New York and his firm was Cleveland, Seligson, Bangs and MacVeigh. He had offices in William street and the New York Sun dubbed him the "Stunted Prophet of William Street."

Harison appeared in court several times after his retirement from office as an attorney in important cases.

Mr. Cleveland became a professor at Princeton after his second term and never actively engaged in the practice of law from that time on.

ROOSEVELT ENTERED NO BUSINESS AFTER RETIREMENT AND EX-PRESIDENT

Went up to the time of his appointment as head of the supreme court, was dean of the Yale law school. Now comes President Wilson, announcing he too is in the practice as an attorney.

After his retirement from law, which was all remunerative, for teaching, which seemed much more to his liking.

LARKIN LIVED A DUAL LIFE 30 YEARS

Rich and a Bachelor to His Friends, and Had Home Elsewhere.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] St. Louis—Bill Larkin, inventor and late millionaire vice president of the National Ammonia Company, for forty-four years lived as a bachelor in one rooming house at 11 E. Thompson, maintained another home as the reputed husband of Harriet Belle Thompson, unknown except to a small circle of friends, it was asserted in a deposition filed in a legal contest of Larkin's will.

Mr. Larkin, 51 years old when he died in April, 1920, was the inventor of the anhydrous ammonia shipping cylinder, which is said to have been the operation of isolated ammonia type ice-making and refrigerating plants throughout the world.

Lawyer Harvey and Duke Life. Mrs. Thompson died shortly before Larkin's death. The two began living together when he was 37 years old and she was 15. Charles Cummings Collins, a lawyer and friend of Larkin, deposed. The deposition stated Larkin wanted to marry Mrs. Thompson, but she refused, saying it might embarrass him.

The will contest was brought by Elizabeth K. Larkin and Mrs. Annie B. Oliver, relatives, who were bequeathed $5,000 each. The bulk of Larkin's 1 1/2 million-dollar estate was left to charity. The contestants declared Larkin was mentally incompetent when he made the will.

Admitted He Lived Double Life. "The story of Larkin's life, as told by Collins in the deposition, states that Larkin came to him one day about fifteen years before his death and said: 'I want you to help me out. I have been living a double life. I have been living with a woman named Harriet Belle Thompson. I have kept her in an apartment or in my home. I am beginning to get old. Bella is in bad health. I want to be assured that if I depend upon will do whatever is necessary to care for Bella. She is my wife to all intents and purposes and my mind will be greatly relieved if you will help me to become acquainted with her, and if possible convince her you are my friend, and look after her if anything happens to me.'"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington—"Compulsory disarmament of women" was suggested by Alice Robertson, Oklahoma's congresswoman, at a luncheon of the national palace. He promised the demonstrators that he would give their claims careful consideration but that they should not forget that landlords and capitalists would not be legally ignored. If the municipality did not act promptly in their behalf the chief executive added, he promised remedial measures through presidential decrees.

Among the charges made were that a powerful combination of agents has secured long term leases to thousands of residences in Havana and that they are demanding rents for substandard above the prices they are paying landlords.

One of the many measures introduced in congress and aimed at reducing the cost of living provides for construction by the government of thousands of small houses in the suburbs which would be sold to the working classes on the partial payment plan.

ENGLISH SITE TO COMMEMORATE U. S. SOLDIERS IN WAR

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London—Bunker Hill, a slight eminence adjoining London's popular playground, Hampstead Heath, is to bear a monument commemorating Anglo-American brotherhood-in-arms during the great war.

Plans are being collected to purchase the site, and the plans are to erect a memorial in the shape of a curved wall, displaying the names of the regiments and commanding officers of the American and English armies who fought together. Metal tablets would record the battlefields and the names of the English military training camps where the Americans stayed after reaching England. The whole is to be surrounded by flower beds.

The cost of the memorial is to be from $50,000 to $75,000 and among the supporters of the scheme are Nicholas Fitz Butler of New York, Lord Bryce, Lady Astor and the Bishop of London.

Build a Community Center and Convention Hall for the city for athletic, civic, and social purposes. This is also a part of a program to provide a new and complete city hall for the people of the year around. Complete the city plan. Make more small parks and playgrounds and provide for the recreation of the whole people. Make all main highways into city of concrete to connect with good pavements in Janesville. Keep the city looking bright and clean with paint and the streets free from filth. Either build a new hotel or so increase the facilities of the present hotels as to take care of the traveling public and be able to handle conventions. Finish the high school at an early date and give the children proper educational facilities.

THE APPROACH OF WINTER.

From many sections and from many cities comes the news of preparation for caring for an army of unemployed during the coming winter. Beloit, where there are numbers out of work, has already taken steps to see that distress is not general. At Racine an arrangement has been made whereby the city has commenced the erection of a bridge employing many persons at a stipulated number of hours during the week and rotating the jobs so that unemployed can be given work each day. Other industrial centers where unemployment has been a factor all summer, have begun to look about to see what can be done for the relief of conditions.

This is the right kind of preparedness. Janesville probably has fewer persons out of employment than any other city in this part of the state where anything like the number of industrial establishments are operating. There is but a small floating population and it has been growing less and less all summer. Those who are here and are employed in most all cases are, according to fairly good report, residents of the city with homes or families or with home ties. The high school work being done by home people, the other jobs that summer brings and with watchful care that the persons employed have been home folks, have all added to the number of employed persons and kept away the floating labor. But notwithstanding this fact, and the generally better business conditions we have here as compared with some other cities, we should be prepared for eventualities.

Janesville is back to a normal condition as of the time prior to the war, and with even better conditions existing so far as actual volume of business is concerned. We have lost sight of the year 1913 and of 1914 as comparative periods and have been too much given to making comparisons of 1921 with 1919 and 1920. Those were abnormal years and for the purpose of the present are useless as indicating anything, approaching normal. We are steadily approaching a new basis, a better basis all around than in 1914. Generally speaking the crops of Southern Wisconsin are excellent, the market is fully good, there will be no great loss in operation and the market is apt to be better instead of worse.

Ninety days ago there were close to 6,000,000 people out of work according to the U. S. labor department. There are several hundred thousand less now than in June. These men and women put to work in the past two months have added to the buying power. There are so many factors contributing to the economical situation at this time, that it would be impossible to remedy all at once by any one act and it is also a situation which no amount of congressional action or administrative effort can quickly mend. What we can do in the moment when the industrial conditions are such that business is improving and economic disaster is not possible now, is to instill the spirit of optimism and maintain it. There seems to be no need for Janesville to make any strenuous or out of the ordinary effort to organize for the winter in relief of the unemployed. We still have the United Relief and other methods well able to care for any cases that might eventually arise. In which we may say, in all modesty, that we are better off than some of our neighbors.

Tragic memories are recalled by reading in the Delavan Republican's Twenty Years Ago column that the Interurban road would soon be extended to Delavan. It is to be regretted that it was not.

Compulsory disarmament of women is advocated by Congresswoman Alice Robertson, who declares the murders by her sex have become so numerous because women got off too easily.

Sentencing a French foot ball player to prison for injuring another in a game will perhaps enable One Old Cat to be introduced into France.

California complains that most of her murders with which the state is being advertised are done by outsiders and not by Native Sons.

Farmers are cutting tobacco and congress is cutting taxes. Will Janesville get in line on the taxes?

Governor Small says he is persecuted but others think he is only being prosecuted.

PEAT FUEL POSSIBILITIES

By FREDERIC J. HASSIN

Washington, D. C.—Is Arlington Mansion, bare and gloomy since Lee rode away, again to be turned into the semblance of a beautiful colonial home, with its relics of Washington, Custis, and Lee restored?

Arlington was stripped of its souvenirs of George Washington, its works of art, and its furniture in the exciting Civil war days. Tricentennial relics, left unguarded, were somehow stolen by vandal camp followers. Soldiers quartered about the grounds had opportunity to buy for a song, or even to take without price, souvenirs to send back home. What was left of the Washington things was finally carried in a museum in the patent office, whence the exhibits later found their way into the national museum and to Mount Vernon.

General Meigs, once Robert E. Lee's intimate friend, was so embittered by Lee's allegiance to his state that he vowed that never again should the mansion be used as the Lee homestead. To insure this, he ordered graves dug on the grounds for the Union dead, and Arlington became a national cemetery, with the mansion reported, save for certain rooms set aside for the use of the superintendent of the cemetery.

Meigs' vow will always hold. The mansion can never again be the real colonial home left by Lee's family. Thousands of stones dot the lawns of the Arlington estate, even close to the homestead. But Arlington Mansion can be made into a museum, like Mount Vernon, of great historic value and sentimental interest. The idea of attempting this has been proposed by a Virginia chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, and the plan is to be discussed at the annual convention of the organization in October. If the project is approved there, it must then be submitted to the government.

If the Daughters of the Confederacy agree in the desire to restore Arlington House and take care of a collection there, there is no reason to think that congress would refuse consent. Arlington is closely associated with many famous earlier characters, such as Lafayette and George Washington Parke Custis, Washington's adopted son.

This Custis was the builder of Arlington House. In 1802, soon after Mrs. Washington's death, he left Mount Vernon and superintended the building of a home for himself on 1,142 acres of ground belonging to him at Arlington, Va. The residence he planned was a two-story Greek temple, with eight of the huge pillars of a Doric temple, with the house set on the brow of a hill so that it would overlook the capital. The portico at Arlington offers what is perhaps the most beautiful outlook on the City of Washington. Lafayette, visiting Mr. Custis at Arlington, declared it one of the most beautiful views he had ever looked upon. And another visitor of 10 years ago wrote a brilliant panorama is presented. The capitol, executive mansion, Smithsonian institute, the growing magnificent Washington monument, and almost every house in the federal city may be seen at a glance from this point, while between them and Arlington flows the bright flood of the Potomac.

In his new home, George Washington Parke Custis dispensed the same lavish hospitality that had been the rule at Mount Vernon. His house was furnished with taste and elegance. Many relics and furnishings of Mount Vernon were left to him and transferred to Arlington, and these were cherished by Custis and his guests as things which the first president had used.

The war tent which Washington carried throughout the revolution was so greatly treasured that when Custis wished signals to honor any visitors he had the tent pitched on the lawn and received them in it. This tent is now in a glass case in the national museum. The brown cloth is folded in several bundles, and the poles lie on top.

Another Arlington souvenir of equal historic value was Washington's bed. The same writer who so vividly described the view from the portico has this to say:

"In one of the chambers at Arlington House is the bed and bedstead upon which Washington slept at Mount Vernon and whereon he expired. The frame is remarkable for its great width, being six feet. It was made with other furniture in New York in 1789 and was in continual use by the Patriot until the day of his death. The bed and bedding remain in precisely the same condition as when the good man left it for his final resting place."

This bed is now at Mount Vernon.

Custis had many other belongings of the Washington family—such things as the handkerchief which the general gave to Nellie Custis at Mount Vernon; a heavy iron chest with three padlocks and two bolts in which Mrs. Washington kept money and valuables; a silver tea service from which the first President was said to have served all the great men of the day; beautiful vases, the gifts of admirers; and valuable oil portraits of Washington and his family.

Among these portraits, Custis owned the Sharpsville portrait of Washington, regarded by many people as the best likeness ever executed of the general. But Custis was not altogether satisfied with the various likenesses of his adopted father and had the ambition to paint a full length view of the great man that would settle for posterity all questions as to his face and figure. He did indeed make the painting, showing the general leaning against his horse at Yorktown.

Custis' intentions were good, but his lack of training prevented his attempts at historic paintings from having the value he felt sure they would have. The amateur painter was not daunted by technical difficulties, however, but proceeded to turn out half a dozen Revolutionary battle scenes with Washington prominent in the foreground, and then to decorate the walls of the house with murals. Traces of some of these paintings, a hunting scene, may still be seen in the rear hall of Arlington House.

The heirlooms of Arlington passed on to the Lees when Custis died in 1857. Robert E. Lee had married Custis' daughter and at Custis' wish the young couple set up housekeeping at Arlington, rather than at Lee's own home. Whatever souvenirs of Lee's stay at Arlington are still in existence, therefore, are largely personal belongings.

If the Daughters of the Confederacy do undertake to establish a museum at Arlington, members of the Lee and Custis families and others who have relics from Arlington House would be the only source from which exhibits can be obtained. A number of the Washington exhibits in the national museum are labeled "Lent by Miss Mary Custis Lee." They are not, therefore, the permanent property of the museum.

Although Arlington is across the Potomac from Washington, it is as much visited, as the sights in the heart of the city. The graves and monuments of both northern and southern forces of the Civil war, those of the Spanish war, and now the graves of the European war dead, attract many.

The mansion has always been one of the sights of the grounds and visitors fill huge registers with their names. Except for the tables on which the registers stand, the rooms which are open to visitors are bare.

Arlington is far from forgotten, but it is remembered as a desolate, echoing house. It is difficult to believe that Custis built a dining-room and dancing pavilion on the lawn by his spring and invited picnic crowds to come and enjoy the wooded grounds of the Arlington estate. It is hard to imagine the clean swept halls of Arlington fitted out with old mahogany and silver, imported china, chintz, and brocades. Yet this is Arlington House as it was and as it may be restored.

Let us hope that it may be said of summer that great was the fall thereof.

The tank corps is back covered with lots of glory.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ENRICHED.

Looking back, it seems to me all the griefs which had to be left me, when the pain was over, richer than I had been before. And by every hurt and blow suffered in the long-ago, I can face the world today in a bigger, kinder way.

Pleasure doesn't make the man. Life requires a sterner plan. He who never knows a care Never learns what he can bear. He who never sheds a tear Never lives through days of fear. Has no courage he can show. When the winds of winter blow.

When the nights were dark and bleak And in vain I'd strive to seek Reasons for my bitter griefs, I'd faltered in belief. Little did I think or know I should find it better so. But today I've come to see What these sorrows meant to me.

I am richer by the tears I have shed in earlier years. I am happier for the pain I have borne. And for what averts me yet, By the trials I have met. I am stronger, for I know What it means to bear a blow.

Who's Who Today

CHARLES F. STEINMETZ.

That electricity has not yet done for the world all that it is capable of doing, is the belief of Charles F. Steinmetz, who as an electrical wizard ranks next to the mighty Edison. Mr. Steinmetz foresees a smokeless era, when electricity will furnish not only light and power, but heat for our homes as well.

Twenty-five years ago Steinmetz had just begun his interesting and varied career as consulting engineer to the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y. A position he still holds. He has been a busy man in the world of science to the application of science to our industrial life in Schenectady, Germany, where he was born in 1865, and in Zurich, Switzerland. A man of frail physique but with a mighty brain, he had overcome his physical handicaps and had subjected matter to his will. His investigations in physics, chemistry and in mathematics cover a wide range.

In addition to his practical labors as consulting engineer to a great manufacturing plant Mr. Steinmetz is also well known as a teacher. For he is a member of the faculty of Union college. He has written a number of books on electrical and engineering subjects.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

What of a Dye Monopoly?

A gentleman in Congress says that a dye monopoly system may build up a monopoly in the United States. There is unanswerable evidence to the contrary. But if it were true, Mr. Longworth's answer to the charge is complete. "I would not care to deal with a monopoly here where you can control it with a foreign monopoly, the most ruthless, unscrupulous and unscrupulous trust that has ever been formed. All the rest of the civilized world is closed to the German dye trust. It looks to America as its Land of the Golden Fleece. It is to Italy—utterly destroy the native dye industry. Better to prevent that than to meet it as an accomplished fact a year hence, then have to do as Italy did and go back to the embargo, retarding progress and causing enormous losses aggregating tens and hundreds of millions."

How ruthless is the German method? We have before us an authentic statement as follows:

The combination of German manufacturers producing bronze powders have issued price lists showing that the selling prices of their products in the United States are just half what they are asked for from other countries. This is a deliberate effort to put the American manufacturer of bronze powders out of business, even though the German combination is at a loss to account for it. Previous to the war there were but four manufacturers of bronze powders in the United States and two of the companies were controlled and owned by Germans. There are now not a few American manufacturers. Their capacity is sufficient to meet all domestic requirements. But they cannot survive if Germany is permitted to utilize her profits in other countries to make up enormous losses in America, these losses being a subsidy to finance the campaign for the destruction of the American industry.

That is the ruthlessness with which Germany works. She can afford to give away goods to American customers if by so doing she can drive the American dye industry to ruin. With that accomplished, the German dye trust could dominate the market and fix prices high enough to recover all her losses within a few years.—Manufacturers' Record.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

August 16, 1881—Action was brought in the Circuit court against Peter J. McGee last week for driving pigs in the river but the case was dropped by Judge Patton, as it was said that the city ordinance prohibiting this was drawn up a number of years ago and was void since the river was navigable. It may be brought up as a state case.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

August 16, 1891—Sunday.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

August 16, 1901—An interesting case has just been concluded in the Circuit court when Judge Siebeker said that the Milwaukee railroad company had a right to lay tracks crossing Prospect avenue. The city council decided that this could not be done and the case was taken to the city court. Judge Burger stated that the case would be taken to the Supreme court.

TEN YEARS AGO

August 16, 1911—Two men were killed in the international bridge fight at Niagara last week. Other events will continue according to the schedule in spite of the fatalities. The members of the old 15th regiment met in this city today, many of them for the first time since the war. They were here for the 100th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg. Meetings will continue tonight.

VITAMINS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

Some unidentified substance, present in certain foods and absent from others, that has become known under the name of vitamin, seems to be indispensable in the diet of a young animal. It is essential for normal nutrition and growth. Babies are young animals, only not quite so well cared for as are most young animals. The fat of milk or butter is rich in vitamins, while the fat in poor milk is poor. Perhaps the nature of the diet of the cow and the pig accounts for this difference. The cow's food consists largely of grass, the leafy vegetable, which is rich in vitamins. The pig's food consists largely of items not rich in vitamins. From some recent experiments of English physiologists, it is known that the fat of milk of the cow is rich in vitamins. Ordinarily, as we know, oil and oleomargarine are poor in vitamins, therefore butter is rich in vitamins, and even the abdominal fat of cattle (which is used in some brands of oleomargarine) are rich in vitamins.

These observations go to show that the character of the diet influences the store of vitamins in the body. This is of the utmost importance for the nursing mother to understand, for upon the character of her diet will depend the normal nutrition and growth of the baby.

Now in spite of the fanciful objections by the misinformed to this, that and the other, the fact is that the diet of the nursing mother, it is unwise to omit any article of diet which the mother would ordinarily consume if she were not nursing a baby. On the contrary, the mother should strive to have even a greater variety, as certainly as she requires a greater quantity of food for the best interest of the baby. Especially does she need green, fresh fruits, and such vitamin-rich items as green onions, cucumbers, raw cabbage (slaw), spinach, tomatoes, peas, string beans, carrots, and the like. Let no foolish prejudices prevent her from taking freely of these valuable foods. Unless the mother's diet includes a liberal variety of vitamin-rich foods—and all vitamins come originally from vegetable foods—the baby will suffer from a deficiency of vitamins in the milk.

MECHANICAL SUGAR

CANE CUTTER FOUND

London.—A mechanical cane cutter, which is expected to solve the labor difficulties of planters the world over, has been invented by Sir Percy Scott the gunnery expert. The machine is hand propelled, weighs about 200 pounds and has a projecting knife which makes 3,000 revolutions a minute. "In the trials," said Sir Percy to The Daily Mail, "I have used pieces of very hard bamboo, two inches in diameter, which I consider offer two or three times the resistance of sugar canes. In each instance the knife went through the bunches like butter."

That you are getting full value for your money when you use this class of tobacco.

The good, rich, real tobacco taste lasts so long, you don't need a fresh chew nearly as often—nor do you need so big a chew as you did with the ordinary kind.

Any man who has used the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

TRIPLE PACT, IS DESIRE OF BRITAIN

England Would Like to See
Treaty Twixt U. S., Japs and Herself.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.

Washington—Great Britain would like to broaden the Anglo-Japanese alliance so that it might include the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

Indications of the British desire have reached here in a purely formal way and are not the result of any of the motives of the powers who will be assembled at the Washington conference.

The United States government has not been asked to become a party to the Anglo-Japanese alliance—nothing so formal as that.

That has been suggested though it is interesting to note that the press as early as last June began discussing just such a plan.

The American government is aware of the British attitude as reflected in the statement made to the conference and is endeavoring to make the better of it.

Direct or indirect, upon the vicissitudes of British diplomacy.

Pact Come Slowly

Yet the big facts are coming out slowly to show why the president's conference was convened and what were the controlling influences in the conversations which preceded the decision to call the nations together, not merely on disarmament but on Far Eastern questions.

The most significant statement from the British thus far, which has not failed to be noticed here, is the following: "In accordance with the suggestion which was believed to have been made by the conference on disarmament, the conference on disarmament should be preceded by friendly conversations or consultations between the powers principally concerned."

"In accordance with the suggestion which was believed to have been made by the conference on disarmament, the conference on disarmament should be preceded by friendly conversations or consultations between the powers principally concerned."

Bank Robbers Finding Wisconsin Poor State for Profitable Crime

(By Associated Press.)

Madison—Bank robbery in Wisconsin is not as profitable as it might seem, according to George D. Bartlett, secretary of the Wisconsin Bankers' association.

Recent "front page" articles, telling of bank robberies throughout Wisconsin, would lead one to believe that daylight holdups can be carried out as easily as movie robberies.

But the bank robbers are not so easily won over by the police, he said. Out of the six bank robberies which have occurred in Wisconsin during the last 15 months, according to Mr. Bartlett, six were carried out by the police.

There is a difference in the term bank robbery and bank burglary, robbery being the term used in connection with a daylight "hold-up" and the latter applying to an attack by night.

The only bank robbery in Wisconsin during 1919 was the state bank at Silver Lake, where the robbers made away with some $4,000 but were captured by a posse of Wisconsin county citizens and killed within eight hours after the robbery.

On Sept. 23, 1920, the Exchange State Bank, Oshkosh, was robbed of $500. The four robbers were captured and are now each serving a 30-year sentence in Waupun.

Eight thousand dollars was taken from the Superior State Bank, Superior, Nov. 10, 1920. Three of these robbers were captured in Omaha, and are now serving 20-year sentences at Waupun.

The robber who held up the state bank at Winnebago, Wis., Feb. 10, was traced across the Mississippi river and captured near Red Wing, Minn., within three hours after the robbery. $2,300 he had taken from the bank.

On July 15, 1921, the state bank of Wabeno, Wis., was robbed of $5,000. $4,000 in treasury bonds and $1,000 other registered securities.

MOVIE CROCODILES ROUT SOLDIERS IN POOL OF LOUIS XIV

Versailles—The beautiful marble swimming pool created by Louis XIV between the Trianon palace and the Neptune basin so that the pages of the king might enjoy a dip on hot days, is now used by private soldiers stationed in the barracks near by.

During one recent raid about 500 private soldiers were recuperating in the pool from two hours' drill in the morning before the noon day meal.

Suddenly, with a tremendous splash, soldiers swam out of the bath.

"Crocodiles, crocodiles, there are crocodiles in the pool!"

"Put a blanket around this man and take him to the guardhouse," they cried with the heat.

Then with a concerted rush which equalled anything ever shown against the Germans, the other 49 bathers leaped out.

"Crocodile! Crocodile!" they shrieked.

The lieutenant, a veteran of many battles, looked down at the water, which was now a sea of crocodiles.

The lieutenant's face blanched and he wondered whether he had become a crocodile himself.

Just then two men bearing an instrument which resembled a machine gun on high stilts came along.

"Don't hurt our crocodiles," they begged the lieutenant. "They're harmless and we need them in our film."

A. B. Bergman, athletic director of the Janesville Y. M. C. A., went up with the "Patrie du Chien" and turned Tuesday. He said the boys did some good playing and made a great showing for the first delegation ever to go from here to a state meet.

The consolation will be played Tuesday and the doubles Wednesday.

First rounds of play were productive of a calibre of good tennis seldom equaled in previous meets. Chicago players were victorious in their matches.

Other matches of note included the Knox and Paulock against the Knox and Paulock, and the Knox and Paulock against the Knox and Paulock.

The Janesville players are still to play in the consolation. They expect to be able to make a better showing.

They will be permitted to play in the consolation event. Nowlan and Seiler and Jones and Parsons are paired in doubles. Owing to the inability of C. K. Patton, sixth member of the team, to play, Parsons will not play in this event.

CLEVELAND DENTIST WINS GOLF TOURNEY
Milwaukee.—H. G. Grubb, Mayfield Country club, Cleveland, won the second annual National Dental Golf association championship on the Blue Mound Country club course, Monday, by scoring 187 for 36 holes.

G. T. Gregg, Cleveland, was second with 190. The entry, a record one, was 187.

URGES PRECAUTIONS IN FILLING SILOS
Care should be taken by Rock county farmers in filling silos as is evidenced by the death of two farm hands at Geneva, Illinois, County Agent R. T. Chascoe says.

George Berg, Geneva, and William Kruger, Milwaukee, were suffocated by gas generated from corn in a 40 foot silo. Berg went into the silo first. When he failed to appear or answer, Kruger went in to determine what was wrong. He failed to appear in 10 minutes.

Then J. R. Kirk was lowered by a rope and lost consciousness before he could be raised. Later the two bodies were found.

The gas generated from silage is composed mainly of carbon dioxide and is similar to that found in the coal mines. Being heavier than air, the gas lays in the bottom of a silo and the lack of oxygen means almost certain death.

ATTRACTION--FIRE RESISTIVE --PERMANENT

These three words explain the advantages of a stucco on concrete block house—such as you see in the attached illustration.

Houses of this type have been in use in many cities for a number of years with much satisfaction to the owners.

We can furnish the necessary blocks to make an attractive, fire-resistive, and permanent house at a reasonable cost.

A talk with us will cost you nothing, and you may secure some valuable ideas on house construction.

EVERY PITCHER GOES FULL WAY SUNDAY, SETTING NEW MARK

New York.—A major league record for 1921 was set by the National League, Sunday, when there was no change of pitchers in the four games played. Of the eight twirlers, Morrison of Pittsburgh pitched the best game, blanking Chicago with three hits. In the American League, Jones of Boston shut out Washington with four hits, while Fisher of Chicago resounded the Cleveland world's champions to five hits and one run.

MANDELL TRIMMING FOR BATTLE WITH MOORE ON AUG. 25

"Smiling" Sammy Mandell, the sensational boy bantamweight who so pleased the Janesville fans in the opening show of the Elks here, takes a rest Tuesday from his training for a bout with Pat Moore at Aurora, Aug. 25, Wednesday night.

He is slated to go 10 rounds against Willie Green at Camp Grant. It is sort of a preparatory match for the battle with Moore.

Interest in the coming scrap is at a high pitch here. A number of local fans are planning to motor down to the encounter a week from Friday and root for Sam.

Pat Moore is putting on the finishing touches at the Arcade in Chicago.

Reformers are trying to stop the scheduled bout between Johnny Wilson and Bryan Downey in Jersey City on Labor day. The set is to decide which is entitled to the midweight title. The International Reform bureau is taking the matter up with its attorneys, Tuesday.

Johnny "Kewpie" Ertle, St. Paul bantamweight, who retired several years ago, and who is able to re-enter the ring, will launch his "come back" in Sioux City, Ia., Labor day. His opponent will be either Johnny Ritchie of Chicago or Frank Plascere. A local manager has signed with a promoter to meet either man.

Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, scheduled to meet Georges Carpentier in October, has accepted terms to meet Battling Levinsky at South Bend, Ind., Labor day. He is to get $10,000.

CHURCH BALL LEAGUE TO MEET TUESDAY

"Slim" Jim Walsh, pitcher for the former Janesville Tractors, hung up his sixth straight victory on Sunday when he twirled Elroy to a 5 to 4 victory over Sparta. The elongated hurler is going like a house afire and is making a big hit with the Elroy fans, where he is in weekly demand.

On Sunday Walsh came across with a beautiful three-hit win. While there were a number of excellent moments on account of the close score, "Slim" was a constant puzzle to the Sparta batters.

Elroy backed up the Janesville moundman with perfect support. They nicked Sparta for nine bingles.

The Mystery of the Cook's Pet Parrot

A FUNNY paper recently.
SLIPPED ME a good laugh.
WITH A wheeze about.
A FAMOUS ventriloquist.
AND WHY he had quit.
THE VAUDEVILLE stage.
IT SAID he discovered.
HE COULD make more jack.
SELLING WOODEN parrots.
SO WHEN I got home.
I PASSED the joke.
TO OUR cook, who owns.
BOTH A speechless parrot.
AND A sense of humor.
BUT SHE muffed it.
BECAUSE SHE didn't know.
WHAT A ventriloquist was.
SO I had to explain it.
AND ON the way out.
I BLEW just a whiff.
OF CIGARETTE smoke.
AT HER amusing old.
FOOL OF a parrot.
WHICH NEVER talks.
AND I said, "Poll.
HOW D'YOU like it?"
AND TO this day.
IT'S GOT me guessing.
WHETHER IT was cook.
OR THE blamed bird.
WHICH SQUAWKED back.

CHESTERFIELDS speak for themselves. They let you know you're smoking. They "satisfy" and yet, they're mild. An impossible combination, you say? Sure—everywhere but in Chesterfields. The blend does it and the blend can't be copied!
